ВСТУП

Навчальний посібник складений для курсантів немовних спеціальностей, які продовжують вивчення іноземної мови.

Вивчення іноземної мови, як культурного та спеціального явища повинно сприяти формуванню у курсантів загальної культури.

Метою навчального посібника є практичне оволодіння англійською мовою, формування навичок у різних сферах, аспектах мовної діяльності.

Навчальний посібник складається з 8 тематичних розділів, кожен з яких вміщує 4 уроки. Кожен урок передбачає читання і переклад основного тексту, виконання лексичних завдань до тексту та граматичних вправ. Оскільки тематика текстів не має вузькоспеціального характеру, навчальний посібник може бути корисним студентами різних вузів і факультетів. Матеріал поданий у збірці відноситься до основного курсу вивчення іноземної мови, який передбачає:
- формування базових знань з граматики, загальновживаної лексики;
- оволодіння певними моделями, насамперед такими, що не мають аналогів у рідній мові;
- ознайомлення із загальними принципами структури іноземної мови;
- активізація навичок усного мовлення в ситуаційному моделюванні професійної діяльності;
- сприйняття на слух, аудіювання текстів.

Складовими частинаами вивчення іноземної мови є: читання і переклад, усне мовлення та письмо, як засіб та мета навчання.

Письмо – це допоміжний засіб навчання, що входить до системи вправ при закріпленні та контролі лексичного та граматичного матеріалу. Учбовий переклад має за мету adekvatnu передачу інформації, що базується на комплексному підході до подолання граматичних, лексичних та стилістичних труднощів у тексті.

Фонетика та граматика у посібнику подаються не у вигляді зведення правил для вивчення, а як мовний матеріал, в процесі роботи над яким у курсанта формуються мовні навички та вміння.

Оволодіння лексичним матеріалом відбувається в процесі роботи над текстом навчального посібника, при цьому робота над словом ведеться в контексті.

Навчальний посібник передбачає вдосконалення навичок читання і мовлення. Особливого значення набувають вправи, спрямовані на самостійне розуміння значення слів та словосполучень на основі контексту, мовної здогадки. Для читання на всіх рівнях навчання використовуються адаптовані та оригінальні композиційно-структурні та змістово-завершені тексти, різні за обсягом та мовною насиченістю.
A state, Ukraine, appeared on the world political map in 1991. Ukraine occupies an area of 603,700 square kilometers. In the north Ukraine borders on Belarus; in the east and north east, on Russia; in the south-west, on Hungary, Romania and Moldova; in the west, on Poland and Slovakia. In the south Ukraine is washed by the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov. The total length of the frontiers is 6,500 km, including 1,050 km of the sea frontiers.

In the north of Ukraine there are forests, in the west – the Carpathian Mountains, in the eastern and central Ukraine – black-soil steppe lands.

We can admire picturesque slopes of the green Carpathians and the Crimean hills, the green forests of Poltava, Chernigiv and Kyiv, the endless steppes of Kherson, Myckolayiv and Odesa. It is really the land of woods, lakes and rivers.

The main territory of Ukraine is flat, but 5% of it make up mountains. The major rivers are the Dnieper, the Dnister, the Bug, the Donets and others.

Typical representatives of the Ukrainian fauna are hare, fox, squirrel, bear, wolf, goat. Among the trees growing in the Ukrainian territory are birch, pine, oak and fir-tree.

The Carpathians are situated in Europe and stretch through Hungary, Poland, Romania, including Ukraine. They are divided into the West Carpathians, East and South ones. The highest point of the Ukrainian Carpathians is Hoverla – 2,061 meters above sea level. They are covered with beautiful forests and woods, there are meadows here which are called as “polonyna”.

The Crimean Mountains stretch about 150 km along the coast of the Black Sea. The highest point of them is the mountain Roman-Kosh – 1545 meters above the sea level.

The Crimea is a peninsula located in the south of Ukraine and is washed by the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov.

The population of Ukraine is about 46 million (46% male and 54% female; density 87 persons per 1 square km). Ukraine is inhabited by representatives of 128 nations, nationalities and ethnic groups.
The capital of Ukraine is Kyiv. It stretches on the high hills along the Dnieper, rivaling the oldest and most charming cities of Europe.

Ukraine’s other big cities are Kharkiv, Dnipropetrovsk, Odesa, Lviv, etc. The largest Crimean towns are Simpheropol, Sevastopol, Kerch, Yevpatoria, Yalta and Feodosiya.

The geographical position of Ukraine is very favorable for the development of its industry and agriculture.

THE POLITICAL SYSTEM OF UKRAINE

On the 24th of August, 1991 Ukraine became an independent state. On the 1st of December, 1991 the everlasting dream of the Ukrainian people came true. 90% of the people voted for independence of Ukraine and since that time the Ukrainian people had become the masters of their own destiny.

Governed by the Act of Ukraine’s Independence, the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine on behalf of the Ukrainian people adopted the Constitution – the Fundamental Law on June 28, 1996.

The Constitution establishes the country’s political system, assures rights, freedoms and duties of citizens and is the basis for its laws.

Ukraine is a sovereign and independent, democratic, social, legal state with single citizenship.

The state language in Ukraine is Ukrainian.

The state symbols are the State Flag, the State Emblem and the State Anthem of Ukraine. The State Flag is a blue and yellow banner made from two equal horizontal stripes. The main element of the Great State Emblem is the sign of the State of Prince Volodymir the Great. The State Anthem of Ukraine is the national anthem with the music of M.Verbytsky.

The capital of Ukraine is Kyiv. The Constitution outlines the structure of the national government and specifies its powers and duties. Under the Constitution the powers of the government are divided into three branches – the legislative which consists of the Verkhovna Rada, the executive, headed by the President, and the judicial, which is led by the Supreme Court.

The parliament - the Verkhovna Rada is the only body of the legislative power in Ukraine. There are 450 people’s deputies who are elected for a term of four years on the basis of universal, equal and direct suffrage by secret ballot.

The Verkhovna Rada’s main function is making laws. The President of Ukraine secures state independence, national security of the state, human rights and freedoms. He represents the state in foreign relations, conducts negotiations and concludes international treaties of Ukraine.

Ukraine is divided into 24 regions and the Autonomous Republic of Crimea. The cities of Kyiv and Sevastopol are subordinated directly to the central government.

УКРАЇНА. КИЇВ

Заняття 3

КИЇВ – СТОЛИЦЯ УКРАЇНИ

Прочитайте та перекладіть текст українською мовою

KYIV

Kyiv is the capital of Ukraine. It is one of the oldest cities of Europe and therefore there are many historical places in it. It was the capital of ancient Rus, cradle of three fraternal peoples — the Russian, the Ukrainian and the Byelorussian.

Nowadays it is a large political, industrial, scientific and cultural centre of Ukraine. Its population equals nearly 3 million people. It is the seat of the Verkhovna Rada and the Cabinet of Ministers.

Kyiv is famous not only for its history (it was called “the Mother of All Rus' Cities”), but for its beauty, for the abundance of places of historic interest in it. It is situated on the picturesque banks of the Dnieper River.

Kyiv's monuments of the past attract a lot of visitors. They are impressed by Kyiv-Pechersky Monastery which stands on the green hill above the Dnieper and its sparkling gold cupolas can be seen from outside the capital. The huge gateway from Volodymyrska Street opens on the territory of another ancient monument — St. Sophia's Cathedral which is a state architectural and historical preserve. It was founded in 1037 during the reign of Yaroslav the Wise. On the other corner of Volodymyrska Street you can see the Golden Gate. Shevchenko Memorial, Vydubetsky Monastery, Askold's Grave, Church of St. Andrew are really worth sightseeing too. In the Park of Immortal Glory there is a Tomb of Unknown Soldier, over which an eternal fire burns.

There are a lot of museums in Kyiv: the Historical Museum, the Museum of Ukrainian Art, the Museum of Russian Art, the Museum of Western and Oriental Art, Shevchenko Museum, Lesya Ukrainka Memorial Museum and others.

Kyiv is the centre of Ukrainian culture. Many research institutes and higher educational establishments are to be found here. It is famous for its theatres and concert halls such as Taras' Shevchenko Opera and Ballet Theatre, Musical Comedy Theatre, Puppet Theatre, Conservatoire and Philharmonics, the Concert Hall “Ukraine”. The performances staged at these theatres are always of great demand.

The picturesque green banks and hills, plentiful flowerbeds with millions of different flowers, wonderful beaches of the Dnieper, Kreshchatic, one of the widest and most beautiful streets in our country — all this adds up to the beauty of the Ukrainian capital.

UKRAINIAN CUSTOMS AND TRADITIONS

Traditions and customs are a direct vibration of the historical past of nation “Every country has its customs”, the English proverb says.

One of the most peculiar features of life in Ukraine which strikes any visitor to this country is the cherishing and preserving of many traditions and customs.

And when we talk about Ukrainian traditions, we trace the history of our grandparents.

The Ukrainians have the tradition to meet people with bread and salt on a special embroidered towel “rushnik”. Bread and salt are used as a symbol of welcome. They are essential parts of everyday life and ceremonial occasions. Embroidered towels of all sizes called “rushnik” mark the celebration of engagement, marriage, birth, death, Christmas and Easter. In many homes “rushniki” are draped around icons and family portraits. The decoration of “rushniki” or “written-upon-eggs” is a rich folk tradition dating back to prehistoric times in Ukraine.

The traditional embroidery is another distinctive element of Ukrainian culture. Embroidered shirts called “sorochki” were traditionally worn by both men and women. Each region of Ukraine has its own highly developed style of embroidery. Ukrainians have many traditional meals. Ukrainian parties “vechornitsy” are a custom to spend free time in the evening with songs and poems, stories, jokes and dances. Many interesting holidays are connected with the historical development of Ukraine. Many interesting traditions are connected with the Ukrainian wedding.

UKRAINIAN WEDDING

Our country is rich in different customs and traditions. As a good example is Ukrainian wedding. The wedding party is a little bit different in different regions of our country. It is also different from those our forefathers had many, many years ago.
It is quite different in the village and in town. In the country people keep to the old traditions more, while in the towns the wedding is more modern.

The Ukrainian wedding begins with asking in marriage when the groom with his parents and close relatives, who are called “starosty” visits the bride's house. Among these people there must obligatory be a man responsible for asking in marriage. Usually this is a man full of humour, who jokes much. The aim of their visit is to settle marriage. If the girl agrees to marry the boy, she ties starosta with embroidered rushniki over their shoulders. As for the groom, she presents him with a hand-made shawl. If the girl does not agree to marry that boy, she presents him with a pumpkin on the plate.

After asking in marriage betrothal comes. The groom together with the parents and relatives and starosta visits the bride's house. The guests are invited at the table to taste delicious national dishes and drink. But before this, starosta ties the bride's and the groom's hands together with the help of rushnik. It means that they are engaged.

On the eve of the wedding there is the girl's party at bride's house. The bride says good-bye to her girl-friends. They are singing and dancing there.

Then, the wedding day comes. The groom's mother sees her son off to the bride's house. The bride is dressed in the special clothes: a white dress and bridal veil on her head, with flowers in her hands. She is waiting for the groom. She is not alone. There are a lot of girl-friends with her. They are singing songs, special wedding songs. Then, when the groom comes, his boy-friends try to buy the bride and the girls give the price and do not want to sell her. This is a kind of a game. And in the long run the boys buy the bride at last. Then the parents bless the young pair with icons, they strew them with corn and coins and see them off to the church. The young pair goes to the church and the wedding ceremony takes place there. After that the parents greet the young pair with bread and salt on the embroidered rushnik. Then comes the wedding party with Ukrainian songs, jokes, dances and, of course, with “corovai”.

It is a special wedding bread which is divided among all the guests at the end of the party. The young pair has to taste that bread. It symbolizes the formation of the new family. At the end of the party the bride has the last dances with her girl-friends but she has a shawl on her head and the girls have her bridal veil. The next day the close relatives visit the groom's or the bride's house. The wedding party continues.

GEOGRAPHICAL POSITION

The official name of the country is The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. The country is situated in the north-west of Europe and consists of two large islands, Great Britain and the Isle of Ireland, and about five thousand small islands. There are four regions in the UK: England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. The country is washed by the North Sea in the north, the Irish Sea in the west and the English Channel in the south. The English Channel separates Great Britain from France.

Every region of Great Britain has its own administrative centre and the symbol.

England is the biggest region in the country. The symbol of England is the Red Rose. London is the capital of England and Great Britain.

The symbol of Scotland is the thistle. Edinburgh is the administrative centre of the region.

The administrative centre of Wales is Cardiff and the symbol of the region is the daffodil. Belfast is the capital of Northern Ireland and the shamrock is its symbol.

There are no high mountains in Great Britain. In the north the Cheviots (the Cheviot Hills) separate England from Scotland, the Pennines stretch down North England almost along its middle, the Cambrian Mountains occupy the greater part of Wales and the Highlands of Scotland are the tallest of the British mountains. Ben Nevis, the tallest peak of the Highlands, is only 1,343 m high.

There is very little flat country except in the region known as East Anglia.

Most of the rivers flow into the North Sea. The Thames is the deepest and the longest of the British rivers, it is over 300km long. Some of the British greatest ports are situated in the estuaries of the Thames, Mersey, Tyne, Clyde and Bristol Avon.

The population of Great Britain is about 57 million people.

Great Britain is not very rich in mineral resources; it has some deposits of coal and iron ore and vast deposits of oil and gas that were discovered in the North Sea.
The warm currents in the Atlantic Ocean influence the climate of Great Britain.

BRITAIN

Britain forms the greater part of the British Isles, which lie off the northwest coast of mainland Europe. Its weather is changeable, but there are few extremes of temperature. Britain is a major world producer of oil, natural gas and coal. Since 1980 it has been self-sufficient in energy in net terms.

With 57 million people Britain ranks sixteenth in the world in terms of population. England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland, its four component lands, have separate traditions and cultures. Over the centuries immigrants and political refugees from Europe have added their own customs to these. More recently people from the Caribbean and the South Asian subcontinent, Cypriots, Chinese and others have contributed to the multiracial nature of British society.

Britain has for centuries lived by its people's enterprise and the advancement of its overseas trade. It was the world's first industrialized country. While manufacturing continues to play a vital role, recent decades have generally seen a faster growth in the services sector. Government policies seek to stimulate enterprise and encourage wealth creation and competition.

The national infrastructure benefits from a network of motorways, fast inter-city rail services and the recent expansion of airports. Revitalization of inner cities and housing estates includes initiatives to encourage enterprise, employment and education. Reforms are in train to shape Britain's wide-ranging social welfare system for the 1990s.

On an index based on life span, literacy and basic purchasing power a United Nations report on quality of life ranked Britain's among the Highest in the world.

Britain's democratic system of government is long established and well tried, and has provided remarkable political stability. Britain's overseas relations, including membership of the European Community and its links with Commonwealth countries, enable it to play a central role in promoting international co-operation. It supports such co-operation on environmental protection and is active in the scientific assessment of climate change. Its law on pollution control is being developed with other Community members and with the United Nations and its agencies.

GOVERNMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT

Britain is a parliamentary democracy with a constitutional monarch — Queen Elizabeth II — as head of State.

Political stability owes much to the monarchy. Its continuity has been interrupted only once (the republic of 1649-1660) in over a thousand years. The Queen is impartial and acts on the advice of her ministers.

PARLIAMENT

Parliament comprises the House of Commons, the House of Lords and the Queen in her constitutional role. The Commons has 650 elected Members of Parliament (MPs), each representing a local constituency. The Lords is made up of hereditary and life peers and peeresses, and the two archbishops and 24 most senior bishops of the established Church of England. The center of parliamentary power is the House of Commons. Limitations on the power of the Lords — it rarely uses its power to delay passage of a law — are based on the principle that the House as a revising chamber should complement the Commons and not rival it. The proceedings of both Houses of Parliament are broadcast on television and radio, sometimes live or more usually in recorded and edited form. Once passed through both Houses, legislation receives the Royal Assent.

General elections to choose MPs must be held at least every five years. Voting, which is not compulsory, is by secret ballot and is from the age of 18. The candidate polling the largest number of votes in a constituency is elected.

GOVERNMENT

The Government is formed by the party with majority support in the Commons. The Queen appoints its leader as Prime Minister. As head of the Government the Prime Minister appoints ministers, of whom about 20 are in the Cabinet — the senior group which takes major policy decisions. Ministers are collectively responsible for government decisions and individually responsible for their own departments. The second largest party forms the official Opposition, with its own leader and “shadow cabinet”. The Opposition has a duty to criticize government policies and to present an alternative program.

Policies are carried out by government departments staffed by politically neutral civil servants. They serve the government of the day regardless of its political complexion.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Elected local authorities provide housing, education, personal social services, police and fire brigades. Their expenditure is met partly by central government grants and partly by a community charge, generally payable by everyone in Great Britain over 18. This is to be replaced by a local tax, assessed on the number of adults in, and the value of, a property. Capital expenditure is financed mainly by borrowing.

London is the capital of Great Britain. It is an ancient city and the cradle of British traditions and culture.

Over 8 million people live in London. It is the home of the nation's commerce and finance, the main centre of its legal system and press. It has the largest university and the greatest possibilities for entertainment and for sport in Great Britain. Every year London attracts crowds of visitors who come to explore its historic buildings, to see its museums and galleries, its streets and parks, and its people.

Sightseeing tours in London usually start in Trafalgar Square. Tourists are particularly impressed by the Nelson Column there in the centre of the square. From Trafalgar Square you can go along down Whitehall and see the Houses of Parliament which stretch along the Thames' North Bank. Big Ben, the famous clock, is in one of the Towers. Near the Parliament there is Westminster Abbey, an old beautiful chapel. Many great Englishmen are buried here. The south side of the Abbey is called the Poet's Corner where famous British writers and poets lie: Chaucer, Charles Dickens, Tennyson, Thomas Hardy. Here, too, are memorials to Shakespeare, Byron, Scott, Burns and Thackeray.

In London one meets the past and the present, the old and the modern. It is a city of contrasts.

London consists of three parts: the rich West End, the poor East End and the City — its financial centre. The biggest department stores, offices and banks can be found there. The City and the West End are the heart of the capital.

One of the best known museums is the British museum with its library, reading room and the collection of manuscripts both old and new. One of the greatest monuments is St. Paul's Cathedral, which is the Sir Christopher Wren's masterpiece.

London is full of parks and green spaces. Hyde Park is the latest park in London, which is famous for its Speaker's Corner.

In London all kinds of vehicles ride up and down the streets: double-decker buses, lorries, vans, taxis, private cars. Besides, the oldest underground railway system called “tube” is still one of the largest in the world.

HOLIDAYS IN GREAT BRITAIN

The word “holiday” comes from the words “holy day”. In present day Britain beside religious festivals (such as Easter, Christmas, Whitsun) there are many other holidays that have nothing to do with religion. There are festivals honoring important historical events or reflecting certain traditions of the country.

Official public holidays in Great Britain are called bank holidays because all banks are closed as well as most factories, offices and shops. All the bank holidays (except New Year’s Day, Christmas and Boxing Day) are movable. They don’t fall on the same date each year. At present the following days are bank holidays in Great Britain: New Year’s Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, May Day, Spring Bank holiday (the last Monday in May), Summer Bank holiday, often known as the August Bank Holiday, Christmas Day and Boxing Day.

1. What does the word “holiday” come from?
2. Are most holidays religious festivals nowadays?
3. What are bank holidays?
4. How many bank holidays are there in Great Britain?
CHRISTMAS

For most British families the Christmas period is the only time when all the members of the family gather together. This make people feel the importance of the family, and most young people, living apart from their parents, still spend Christmas with the family.

The holiday is celebrated on the 25th of December.

Although Christmas – celebrating the birth of Jesus Christ – is a religious festival, for most British people this holiday means traditional Christmas dinner of turkey, Christmas pudding and mince pies; exchanging presents and watching special Christmas programs on TV.

Decorating a house with evergreens at Christmas is very old custom. Traditionally mistletoe is hung from the ceiling for people to kiss under. Holly is another well known Christmas decoration. There is a legend that Christ wore a crown of holly thorns before his death.

A traditional feature of Christmas is the Christmas tree. Queen Victoria and Prince Albert popularized this German tradition in Britain. Now most families buy a small fir-tree to decorate and put it in their homes at Christmas.

1. Is Christmas a family holiday?
2. When is it celebrated?
3. What does Christmas mean for most people?
4. What does a traditional Christmas dinner consist of?
5. What are traditional Christmas decorations?
BOXING DAY

Boxing Day is celebrated on the 26th of December – on the day following Christmas. It was formerly the custom to give “Christmas boxes”, or gifts of money, to servants and tradesmen on this day. Today many people still give an annual Christmas gift to regular callers such as dustmen and paperboys. This is also a day for visiting friends and relatives and giving them presents.

1. When is Boxing Day celebrated?
2. What custom was it connected with long ago?
3. What traditions exist today?

HALLOWEEN

Halloween is celebrated on October, 31. It was originally a pagan festival of remembrance for the end of the old year and the communion with the dead (it falls on All Souls’ Eve). Some people in Britain feel uneasy about Halloween. It is celebrated principally by children who enjoy frightening atmosphere created by make-up, masks and costumes on the theme of ghosts, witches and skeletons.

In the 1990s many schools banned the Halloween celebration, because of pressure from parents who believed the festival was connected with black magic and because it encouraged children to go out at night unsupervised.

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The USA is the name of the country composed of 50 states joined in a federal republic. It is one of the world’s largest countries (after Russia, Canada and China). It occupies the area over 9 mln square km and has a population of about 250 mln people. Representatives of different nationalities live there. English is the official language of the country.

The flag of the USA has 13 red and white stripes – representing the original 13 states – and 50 stars – for each of the 50 states of the country in our days. The capital of the country is Washington, named after the first president of the USA. The other largest cities are New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Los Angeles.

The USA is a highly developed industrial country. Among the most important manufacturing industries are aircraft, computer techniques – hardware and software, cars, television sets, furniture. Electronic and electric engineering, transport, communication can be found almost in all large cities of the USA.

The United States is a democracy. It means that the Constitution, law and traditions of the USA give the people the right to decide who will be the leader of their nation, who will make the laws and what the laws will be. The Constitution guarantees individual freedom to all.

All citizens of the United States are proud of their country. Since childhood they are taught to be great patriots and love their motherland. They think that the American rivers (the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Columbia, the Colorado) are the longest ones. They consider that their mountains (the McKinley, the Cordilleras, the Appalachian) are the highest ones. Many of their firms and corporations (for example, Reebok, General Motors, Pepsi) are known all over the world. The greatest scientists, the richest millionaires, the best singers, the most famous actors, actresses and sportsmen determine the face of the United States of America nowadays.
THE GEOGRAPHICAL POSITION AND CLIMATE OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

The USA is situated in the central part of the North American continent and occupies the area over 9 mln square kilometers. It is washed by the Atlantic Ocean in the East, and by the Pacific Ocean in the West. Canada to the North and Mexico to the South are the only countries bordering on the United States.

Hawaii, which became the 50th states in 1959, is situated in the Pacific Ocean half way between the west-coast states and the Far East. Alaska is separated from Russia by the Bering Strait.

If we look at the map of the USA, we’ll see lowlands and highlands. Major highlands are the Appalachian Mountains in the east and the Rocky Mountains in Alaska. The main rivers of the country are the Mississippi, the Missouri, the Colorado and the Columbia rivers.

In the northern part of the USA there is the region of 5 great lakes: Lake Superior, Lake Huron, Lake Michigan, Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. These five lakes are connected by natural channels cut by rapids. The greatest of these rapids is the Niagara Falls.

The climate of the USA is different in different regions of the country. The climate of the central part is continental. Crossed by mountain ranges from north to south, the country is unprotected from cold winds from the north and warm winds from the south. So, the coldest regions are in the north. The south has subtropical climate. Hot winds blowing from the Gulf of Mexico often bring typhoons. The Pacific coast is a region of mild winters and dry, hot summers. The climate of Alaska is arctic.

The USA is rich in coal, oil, iron and other minerals, which form a solid base for the development of American industry. In fact, the United States is one of the leading countries in the world economy. Such industries as electronic and space engineering, mining, metallurgy, leather and footwear are well developed.

THE POLITICAL SYSTEM OF THE USA

The USA is a federal republic. The American government consists of 3 branches: the executive headed by the President, the legislative and the judicial. Each branch has a power that the others don’t have and each branch has a way of counteracting and limiting any wrongful action by another branch.

The president is the head of the state and of the government. The president is elected for a four-year term. Under a constitutional amendment passed in 1951, a president can be elected to only two terms.

The legislative branch is represented by Congress. American Congress includes two houses: the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Elections to the House of Representatives are held every two years, when the whole House of Representatives is replaced.

The Senate consists of 100 senators – two senators from each state, elected for 6 years. One third of the Senate is replaced every two years. The President of the Senate is the Vice-President of the United States.

The Judicial branch is headed by the Supreme Court. The other courts are federal courts of Appeal and federal district courts.

Today the United States has two major political parties. One is the Democratic party formed before 1800, the other, is the Republican Party, which was formed in the 1850s.

1. What branches does the American government consist of?
2. Who is the chief executive of the USA?
3. How often is the president elected?
4. Which houses does Congress consist of?
5. What is the judicial branch headed by?
THE LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The legislative branch is made up of elected representatives from all of the states and is the only branch that can make federal law, levy federal taxes and declare war. It consists of Congress that is divided into two houses:
The House of Representatives comprises lawmakers who serve two-year term. Each House member represents a district in his or her home state. The number of districts in the state is determined by a count of the population taken every ten years. The most heavily populated states have more districts and, therefore, more representatives than the smaller states, some of which have only one.

The Senate comprises lawmakers who serve six-year term. Each state, regardless of population, has two senators. That assured that the small states have an equal voice in one of the houses of Congress.

A law begins as a proposal called a “bill”. It is read, studied in committees, commented on and amended in the Senate or House chamber in which it was introduced. It is then voted upon. If it passes, it is sent to the other house where a similar procedure occurs. Groups who try to persuade Congressmen to vote for or against a bill are known as “lobbies”. When both houses of Congress pass a bill on which they agree, it is sent to the president for his signature. Only after it is signed the bill becomes a law.

1. What is the legislative branch made of?
2. What can it do?
3. What houses does Congress consist of? What is its main duty?
4. How can a bill become a law?
5. Who are “lobbies”?

THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH

The chief executive of the United States is the president, who is elected to a four-year term. Under a constitutional amendment passed in 1951 a president can be elected to only two terms.

Often proposes bills to the Congress. The president can also veto (forbid) any bill passed by Congress. The veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote in both the Senate and House of Representatives.

The president has the authority to appoint federal justices. He also is commander-in-chief of the armed forces. The major departments of government are headed by the appointed secretaries who collectively make up the president’s cabinet. Each appointment must be confirmed by a vote of the Senate.

Under the constitution, the president is responsible for foreign relations with other nations. The president appoints ambassadors and other officials, manages the nation’s foreign policy.

1. Who is the chief executive of the USA?
2. How often is the president elected?
3. If the president vetos a bill, can this bill be passed?
4. What authorities does the president have?
5. What is president responsible for?
THE JUDICIAL BRANCH

The judicial branch is headed by the Supreme Court, which is the only court specifically created by the Constitution. In addition, the Congress has established 11 federal courts of appeal and, below them, 91 federal district courts. Federal justices can only be removed from office through the process of impeachment and trial in the Congress.

The Supreme Court today consists of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices. The Court’s most important function consists of determining whether congressional legislation or executive action violates the Constitution.

1. What is the judicial branch headed by? Which other courts are established?
2. What does the Supreme Court consist of today?
3. What is the Court’s most important function?

WASHINGTON, D. C

Washington is the capital of the United States of America. It is located in the District of Columbia. The district is named in honor of Columbus, the discoverer of America.

Washington was founded in 1791. Many people consider Washington to be one of the most beautiful cities in the world. There are many parks, wide streets and impressive buildings. In the centre of the city, there is Capitol Park, where visitors' eyes focus on the Capitol, the home of American Congress.

Many visitors come to Washington D.C to see the White House. It is the oldest public structure in the capital, built in 1799. The White House is the official residence of the President of the United States. It is situated at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. There are more than hundred rooms in the White House. The largest room in this building is the East Room, the scene of many state receptions and dances. Other famous rooms are: the Green Room, the Blue Room, the Red Room, which are used for afternoon tea and for receptions held before state dinners. On the second floor, one can find the Lincoln Room where he signed the Emancipation Proclamation of 1863, which gave freedom to black slaves in the States.

Other landmarks of Washington are memorials, dedicated to three American Presidents. They are the Washington Memorial, built in honor of the first American President, the Lincoln Memorial, which is devoted to the memory of the sixteenth President of the USA, the author of the Emancipation Proclamation and the Jefferson Memorial which was built in honor of the third President of the USA, who was the author of the Declaration of Independence.

The Library of Congress, which holds five million books, the National Gallery of Art, the Capitol are also famous sights of Washington.

The Capitol is located in the very centre of Washington on the Capitol Hill, the highest point of the city. The Capitol is the highest building in Washington. There is a law in Washington not to build buildings higher than the Capitol. George Washington laid the corner stone of the Capitol on September 18, 1793. The Capitol is the home of the United States government.

AMERICAN DREAM

The term American Dream is used in different contexts from political speeches.
to Broadway musicals. J. T. Adams expressed it as “the dream of a land in which life should be better, richer and fuller for every man with opportunities for each according to his abilities and achievements”. The American dream is popularized in countless rags-to-riches stories and in the picture of good life in advertising and on TV shows. It teaches Americans to believe that contentment can be reached through hard work, family loyalty, and faith in the free enterprise system.

However, throughout America’s history, reality has also taught her citizens, particularly minorities, that the American Dream is not open to all. Segregation and discrimination are effective tools which have barred minorities from equal opportunities in all spheres.

HOLIDAYS

HALLOWEEN

The population of the United States is made up of people of very many nationalities. Their predecessors came to America from different countries, and they brought their native celebrations with them. They all became Americans, but they kept many traditions of those countries they had come from. That is why the number of holidays in different states of America is different. But the most important holidays are marked throughout the United States.

Halloween is one of the most interesting holidays and it is celebrated on October 31. Its roots date back hundreds of years to the Druid holiday when the Lord of Dead gathered up the souls of all those who had died during the year to present them to Heavens on October 31, because on November 1 the Druid New Year began and it was the beginning of winter and reign of Prince of Darkness.

According to belief all kinds of witches, goblins and ghosts wandered abroad on this night. On that day Druids lit huge bonfires to honor the sun god and to keep away evil spirits. Later this evening was turned into a festival of fancy-dress parties for young people. They wear ghost and goblins costumes, masks, witches’ hats. Lanterns made of hollow turnips or pumpkins that look like skulls, with a candle in each of them, are hung in the dark or place down doorway entrance and in windows. They are called jack-o-lanterns. White sheets are widely used to look like ghosts to scare each other. All this is accompanied by strong telling - “ghost tales” - and merry making. Boys and girls go along the streets playing tricks. With the threat of “Treat or trick!” they knock at the doors of their neighbors asking for a candy.

Another popular activity is telling ghost stories, while eating hot chestnuts roasted in the fire. It’s a good idea to tell a chain-story. One person starts a story (he makes it up as he goes along). At a dramatic moment he stops and another person goes on. Again, when everything is getting very exciting, the story-teller stops and another person continues. You could be sitting around the fire all night!
1. Why is the number of holidays in different states varied?
2. What is the origin of Halloween?
3. What kind of holiday is it now?
4. What activities are popular?
5. What is the name of a pumpkin with a candle in it?

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving Day comes on the 4th Thursday in November. It is a legal holiday celebrated throughout the United States. People of all faiths celebrate this day. They give thanks for the many good things in their lives.

This is a family holiday. Families come together from near and far. In some places special religious services are held in the morning. Then comes the traditional feast. Turkey with stuffing is the main dish. It is served with sweet potatoes, squash, cranberry sauce, and pumpkin pie. Apple cider is the drink of the day.

Football is the most popular game on this day. For many schools, the Thanksgiving Day game is the most important one of the year. Usually there are several football games to watch on TV.

Macy’s department store holds its annual Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City. Celebrities, bands and balloons shaped like famous storybook and cartoon characters appear in the parade. Santa Claus arrives at the end. His coming marks the beginning of the Christmas season.

Stores, classrooms and homes are decorated with toy turkeys, pilgrims, Indians, wreaths of dried and artificial flowers and vegetables. Horns of plenty are also very popular.

Charitable organizations serve dinners to needy people. They also send baskets of food to the elderly and sick.

1. When is Thanksgiving Day celebrated?
2. Do families come together?
3. Which dishes are traditionally cooked?
4. What games do people play and watch?
5. Who usually appears in the annual Parade in New York?
6. What are typical Thanksgiving Day decorations?

ST. VALENTINE’S DAY

St. Valentine’s day is the holiday of all the sweethearts.

It is celebrated on February, 14 on the date of an old pagan festival when each young man drew from an urn a decorative love missive with the name of the girl who would be his sweetheart for the coming year.

In the 7th century the festival began to be called St. Valentine’s day in honor of Christian martyr, Valentine by name. He was a bishop, who before he was put to death by the Romans sent a note of affection to his jailer’s blind daughter.

Now it is the day when people in love express their feelings for each other. And the quick and modern way to do it is with a Valentine card. You can make a card yourself or buy a ready-made one. You can put your name or send it unsigned (or sign it “Guess who”).

A card can be either sentimental with love poetry and even secret code like ITALY - I trust and love you, or satirical, like “Here’s the key to my heart...Use it before I change the lock!” More than 19 million Valentine’s cards are sent on every February, 14 in the United States.

1. Who celebrates St. Valentine’s Day?
2. What’s the origin of the holiday?
3. What is the modern way to express your feelings?
4. What can be written in a Valentine card?
5. How many cards are usually sent this day?

APRIL FOOL’S DAY

In 16th century France, the start of the new year was celebrated on April, 1. In 1562, when Pope Gregory introduced a new calendar, the new year fell on January, 1. People made fun of the “April fools” who continued to celebrate New Year’s Day on April, 1. They even played tricks on them, often sending them on a “fool’s errand”, or silly task.

Today Americans play “practical jokes”, or small tricks, on friends and strangers on April Fool’s Day. Most April fool jokes are in good fun – such as putting salt in the sugar bowl, or setting the clock an hour behind so roommates show up for the wrong class!

The keenest supporters of the tradition are, of course, children. Most of their tricks are far from original and many have been used so often that they have now become traditional, yet they succeed again and again. One is to tell someone that his shoe-lace is undone, or his tie is crooked, or that something also is wrong with his dress, when in fact all is in order.

The children might decide to wake their parents with the news that the house is on fire, or that some other disaster has occurred. When they see the looks of alarm on their victims’ faces they shout “April Fool!”

On this day of national good humor, the television service joins in fun.

Once they told the story of a building that had been built upside down by mistake. They showed an example of modern architecture which actually did look better when it was turned the other way. Many people must have been fooled, and perhaps the architect himself was giving food for thought.

1. Which holiday had been celebrated on April, 1 before a new calendar was introduced?
2. Who were “April fools?”
3. What are the usual jokes?
4. How do children support the tradition?
5. How did television service fool people?

The name Canada is thought to be derived from Kanata, the Huron-Iroquois word meaning “village” or “community”.

Canada, the world's second-largest country (after Russia), is the largest country in the Western Hemisphere and comprises all the North American continent, north of the United States, with the exclusion of Alaska, Greenland, and the tiny French islands of Saint Pierre and Miquelon.

Canada is bounded on the north by the Arctic Ocean, on the west by the Pacific Ocean, and on the east by the Atlantic Ocean and its associated bodies of water, including Baffin Bay and the Labrador Sea.

Canada has a total population of 30,750,087 or approximately 11% that of the United States. Canada has one of the lowest population densities in the world.

Canada is rich in natural resources. It is a world leader in value of mineral exports and produces and exports many of the minerals needed for modern industrial economies. Canada is one of the world's largest exporters of agricultural products, newsprint and a leading supplier of lumber, pulp, paper, and wood products.

Canada is a self-governing federal union of ten provinces and three territories within the Commonwealth of Nations. Queen Elizabeth II is head of state and is represented in the federal government by the governor-general and in the provinces by lieutenant governors.

Canada has a dual cultural heritage, both French and English are official languages. Of the total population, about 68% speak English at home and nearly 24% speak French; 17% classify themselves as bilingual in two languages.

Canada has no official religion. The largest religious denomination is the Roman Catholic Church.

Australia is the world's smallest continent, sixth-largest country, one of the world's oldest landmasses, the flattest continent, and (after Antarctica) the driest one. Nearly one-third of the continent is in the tropics, and the rest is in the temperate zone. Located completely in the Southern Hemisphere, Australia is bounded by the Indian Ocean in the west and south, the Pacific Ocean in the east, the Tasman Sea in the southeast, and the Timor, Arafura, and Coral seas in the north.

The population density is low.

Australia's geographic isolation has produced a unique flora and fauna.

A self-governing member of the Commonwealth of Nations, Australia is a federation of five mainland states and one island state (Tasmania), with three territories and six dependent areas. It is the only continent comprising a single nation-state.

The climate of Australia varies with latitude. Because the continent lacks relief features and is favored with the moderating influence of the surrounding seas, few dramatic regional variations exist. The northern part of the continent is tropical, the southern parts have a more temperate climate. The vast center of the continent is arid and extremely hot during the summer (December to March).

Australia remained a primarily agricultural country. Australia ranks as one of the world's most economically developed countries.

Australia's original inhabitants are the Aborigines and the Torres Strait Islanders.

In recent years immigrants have significantly enriched the population.

Australia has developed its own distinctive variant of English. The predominant accent displays Irish influence and is reminiscent to some of London Cockney speech.

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand is an island country in the Southwest Pacific Ocean. It lies about 1,600km southeast of Australia and about 10,500km southwest of California. New Zealand belongs to a large island group called Polynesia. The country is situated on two main islands – the North Island and the South Island – and several dozen smaller islands.

Wellington is the capital of New Zealand and Auckland is the largest city. English is the official language of the country. But many native people speak their own language, Maori, in addition to English.

New Zealand once belonged to the British Empire. Today it is an independent member of the Commonwealth of Nations, an association of Britain and a number of its former colonies. New Zealand is a constitutional monarchy. The British monarch, Queen Elizabeth II of the United Kingdom, is the official head of the state. She appoints a governor general to represent her, but he has little power. The legislation, Prime Minister and the Cabinet run the national government.

Britain gave New Zealand a constitution in 1852, when it was a British colony. But through the years the New Zealand legislature has changed almost all its provisions. Today, the nation has no written constitution.

The first people who settled in New Zealand were brown-skinned people called Maoris. They came from Polynesian islands located northeast of New Zealand. The country was discovered by Europeans in 1642, but they didn't start to settle in the islands until the late 1700s. Today, most New Zealanders are descendants of the early European settlers. Maoris make up about 12% of the country's population.

New Zealand has one of the highest standards of living in the world. For many years, the economy of the country depended largely on agriculture. Today agriculture, manufacturing and service industries are all important to the economy. New Zealand's economy depends on trade with many countries – Australia, Britain, Japan and the United States.
NEW ZEALAND WAY OF LIFE

New Zealand has a high standard of living. New Zealanders eat more butter and meat per person than do the people of any other country. The government's medical program provides excellent health care. About 70% of New Zealand people own their houses. Almost every family has a car.

Most New Zealanders live in single-family houses with small vegetable gardens. In the larger cities some people live in apartment buildings. Almost every household has a refrigerator, a washing machine and other modern electric appliances. But air conditioning and central heating are rare because the weather is mild in New Zealand - not extremely hot or cold. In summer, people prefer to keep windows open. In winter, fireplaces or electric heater keep the homes warm.

Although about 4/5 of New Zealand's population live in urban areas, cities are not crowded. Traffic jams seldom occur, even in downtown areas. Large cities have excellent restaurants, milk bars, theatres, concert halls and other places of entertainment. City life in New Zealand tends to be rather quiet. However it is changing in larger cities where international tourism is developing rapidly.

Near 1/5 of New Zealanders live in rural areas. In some of them, small settlements are linked by good roads. But in other areas, rancher's nearest neighbors may live kilometers away. Some ranchers live almost in isolation. Nevertheless, most farms and ranches have electricity. Many farm families run their farms with little or no hired help.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS

The Commonwealth of Nations, usually called simply the Commonwealth, is an association of Great Britain and independent countries that were formerly part of the British Empire, together with their dependencies. The stated purpose of the Commonwealth is consultation and cooperation. Heads of Commonwealth governments meet at intervals of one to three years.

A state may withdraw from the Commonwealth, as did Ireland (1949), South Africa (1961), and Pakistan (1972), although Pakistan rejoined in 1989 and South Africa did so in 1994. With the admission of Mozambique (the first country to join that had never had a connection with the British Empire) and Cameroon in 1995, Commonwealth membership rose to 53.

The founding document of the Commonwealth was the Statute of Westminster of 1931. The members recognize the British monarch as the Commonwealth's symbolic head.

The Commonwealth has a secretariat in London that arranges meetings and conferences, disseminates information, and provides various technical services. There have long been economic ties between Britain and other members of the Commonwealth, and members formerly received preferential tariff treatment for goods they sold in Britain. When Britain joined the European Community (now the European Union) in 1973, the tariff preferences had to be abandoned.

1. What is the Commonwealth of Nations?
2. How many member countries are there in the Commonwealth?
3. Who is the head of the Commonwealth?
4. What was the founding document?
5. What functions has a secretariat?

Заняття 1

РОЛЬ ОСВІТИ В ЖИТТІ ЛЮДИНИ

LOOK AT US NOW!

ROMY ADAMS runs a catering company. She started off in her own kitchen and now runs three catering teams from premises in north London and caters mainly for conferences.

My maths teacher would die if she knew that I run my own company and do all the accounts myself. On my school report, she wrote: “I see very little point in entering Rosemary for maths GCSE. Judging by the consistently low marks she has been getting this term, she is bound to fail the exam”. She was right of course, but when I wanted to set up my own company, I enrolled at the local college and took an evening course in maths and accounting and I was one of the best in the class! A bit of motivation goes a long way!

ANN WATERMAN is a judge and has been an active member of parliament for the last ten years.

I was sent to a rather old-fashioned Boarding School run by nuns. I obviously didn't make much of an impression there, because their final comment was: “She has been a mediocre student and is highly unlikely to go on to further education. We think she is best suited to getting married and raising a family”. The first thing I did when I left school was to join the women's liberation movement.

HENRY WOODS is an actor. He is at present filming a series to be shown on television in the autumn.

History was the only subject he was any good at, and that's because the history teacher would sit and tell stories and bring it all alive. He never made us learn lists of dates by heart – he didn't need to because his stories made it all so memorable anyway. But other teachers used to say things like: “Henry lives in a dream world. He needs to pay more attention”. I was hoping to go to university, but then one of my teachers wrote a comment on my report which took away all my confidence. He put: “Henry is not expected to pass his A-levels with sufficiently high grades to gain a place at university”. So I didn't apply for a place at university. I went to acting school instead, and the rest is history, as they say. I suppose it was fate, but I still feel angry with that teacher.

EDUCATION IN UKRAINE

Present day independent Ukraine has a well-developed system of education which matches the standards of the developed countries. Pre-school education is not compulsory and is fee-paying. Most parents take their children to nursery schools or kindergartens at the age of 3. Up to the age of 5 children mostly eat, sleep and play there, but in senior groups they are taught the basics of arithmetic, reading, writing, arts and in some schools foreign languages.

Compulsory secondary education begins at the age of 6—7 and is free in state schools and fee-paying in private ones. Some schools, especially those with language slant, have preparatory classes. Secondary education includes three stages: primary (1st—3d grades), basic (4—9th grades) and senior (10—11th grades). Recently new types of schools have appeared: gymnasiums and lyceums. In addition, there are schools with technical, computer, mathematical, law, pedagogical and art slant. All the subjects in the secondary schools are obligatory but there are optional courses that students of senior grades can take in addition to the required ones.

Extra-curricular activities usually include a variety of sports and drama clubs, interest groups and various school parties.

Those senior students who want to get qualification alongside the secondary education, can go to vocational training schools. Post-secondary education is provided by technical schools and colleges of 1st and 2nd Level of Accreditation that train young specialists in different trades.

Institutions of higher learning (higher educational establishments) include universities, academies, institutes and conservatories. They all hold entrance examinations to select the best applicants to be their students. Among the best known higher educational establishments there are Shevchenko Kyiv National University, Kyiv Polytechnic University, International Independent University “Kyiv-Mohyla Academy”, Kyiv State Conservatory, Lviv State University, Kharkiv National University, Kharkiv State Polytechnic University and many others.

Post graduate education begins after the last year of studies and usually results in theses on the chosen scientific topic and the degree of the Candidate of Science. Doctorate Degree is awarded for an outstanding scientific research.

Children in Britain must attend school from the age of 5 (4 in Northern Ireland) until they are 16. Before the start of formal schooling, many children attend nursery schools attached to primary schools. In England and Wales many primary schools also operate an early admission policy where they admit children under 5 into what are called reception classes.

Children first attend infants' schools or departments. At 7 they move to the junior school and the usual age for transfer from junior to secondary school is 11 (12 in Scotland). In some areas, however, “First” schools take pupils aged 5 to 8, 9 or 10, and pupils within the 8 to 14 age range go to middle schools.

Over 85% of secondary school pupils go to comprehensive schools, general term for any school which is run by the government and where the parents do not have to pay. However grammar schools are very popular because they offer a good academic education for the 11 to 18 — year age group.

A small minority of children attend secondary modern schools. These schools provide a more general and technical education for children aged 11—16.

City Technology Colleges (CTCs) aim to give boys and girls a broad secondary education with a strong technological and business slant. They are non-fee-paying independent schools, set up by the Government with the help of business sponsors.

Specialist schools, which only operate in England, give pupils a broad secondary education with a strong emphasis on technology, languages, art and sports. They charge no fees and any secondary school can apply for specialist school status.

The independent school sector is separate from the state educational system. Independent schools are known for historical reasons as public schools. They are very expensive private schools. Some students gain scholarships and their expenses are covered by the schools. These schools usually have good academic standards and are attended by pupils from an upper class or wealthy background. Famous ones include Eton and Harrow. Most public schools are boarding schools where the pupils live as well as study.

Higher Education

There are different kinds of educational institutions in Great Britain: universities, colleges (residential and non-residential), University extra-mural departments and evening departments at colleges.

If you want to go to university, you usually apply during your last year at school, when you are 17-18. You can apply to study at any university in Britain.

At the beginning of your last year at school you receive an application form. On this form you choose up to five universities that you would like to go to. The form is sent to those universities with information from your school about you and your academic record. If the universities are interested in your application, they will ask you to attend an interview. If they are still interested after the interview, they will offer you a place.

At present there are about 40 universities in Great Britain. Practically every big city of the country has a university. A university usually consists of some colleges, which are a part of the University.

Until the 19th century there were only two universities in England Oxford and Cambridge. Both Universities are residential. They have a tutorial system of education. Each student has a tutor who helps the student to plan his work.

The modern Universities are not residential. They provide instruction chiefly by means of lectures attended mainly by day students.

College is a separate institution. College gives diplomas, not degrees. The course for training specialists lasts 3 or 4 years, while at the universities it lasts as a rule more than 4 years.

A person who studies for a degree at a British University is called an undergraduate. Bachelor of Arts or of Science is the first degree. One can become a B.A. after 3 years of hard study and a M.A. (Master of Arts or of Science) at the end of 5 years. Doctor of Philosophy is the highest degree.

Tuition costs a lot of money. We have to pay for taking examinations, for attending lectures, for borrowing books from the library, for hostel accommodations.

The academic year has 3 terms. Each term lasts about eight — ten weeks. Between terms the students have their holidays — a month in winter, a month in spring and three or four months in summer.

For several reasons that will be mentioned below one can state that the invention of the automobile dramatically changed the way people lived before.

First of all, automobile allowed people to move faster from one place to another. This in its turn dramatically increased people's life pace. Before the automobile was created people had to either use horse or carriage or wagon for travelling. This created many, many problems. And the greatest invention of all time made distance no longer of that importance. It was a new means of communication.

Second of all, nowadays it is rather difficult to imagine life without a car. People can not do virtually anything without a car. Just imagine for a moment that one does not have a car. One needs to go to an office, get a haircut, buy some food, watch a movie, meet one's friend, etc. To get all these done he uses a car to move fast from one place to another.

In addition, people can travel using their own vehicle. It is great because one can travel independently, without any train schedules.

The invention of the automobile expanded job opportunities. More job opportunities were very important. People needed gas stations, car washes, and mechanics to tend to their cars. Cars allowed people to expand from the city to the suburban life. The need for highways and newly paved roads came into place giving construction workers more jobs. Police and ambulance could get around much faster which was one of the key factors in the invention of the automobile.

Finally, the invention of the automobile was inescapable. People could not continue using trains and horses to meet their life requirements. Moreover, just imagine for a moment how many horses people would need nowadays. We would talk about horse overpopulation as well as human overpopulation.

Unfortunately, the invention of the automobile has some negative aspects. The most obvious aspect of this is road accident. Many people every day suffer from different injuries. Also, with the invention of the automobile humankind came across with a problem of air pollution. A huge amount of cars every day throw out many poisonous matters in the air. I believe that soon we all will be able to exchange our cars for those, which use sun energy instead of fuel.
1. Did the invention of the automobile change people’s life?

THE TELEPHONE
HISTORY OF THE TELEPHONE

The main goal of Alexander Graham Bell in his life was to help the deaf. Both his father and grandfather spent their lives studying human speech and teaching the deaf to speak. Alexander followed in their footsteps.

In the year 1870, Bell began teaching deaf students in Boston, Massachusetts. The next year he started a school for teachers of the deaf which focused on the method of visible speech (sign language).

Between the years of 1874 to 1875, Bell started working on his greatest invention. This invention was the telephone which was inspired by experiments to help the deaf. In Boston, March 10, 1876, the first successful message was transmitted by the telephone. Bell told his assistant, Mr. Watson: "Mr. Watson, come here; I want you."

The telegraph and telephone are both wire-based electrical systems, and Alexander Graham Bell's success with the telephone came as a direct result of his attempts to improve the telegraph.

On February 14 of that same year, Bell's lawyer filed for a patent for Bell's discovery. At the Centennial Exposition of 1876, in Philadelphia, Bell demonstrated his remarkable invention. Bell's telephone fascinated the general public. He later started his own telephone company.

In the year 1880, Bell won the French Volta prize of 50,000 francs for inventing the telephone. He used the money to open up the Volta Laboratory and the American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf in Washington, D.C. This was an information center for the oral education of the deaf. Bell also experimented with sound and aviation. He invented the audiometer which measured the intensity of sound. On August 2, 1922, Bell died at his summer estate on Cape Breton Island in Nova Scotia. During Bell's funeral service, every telephone was kept silent on Bell's telephone system.

THE INVENTION OF THE DYNAMITE

It is a little known fact that the man who created the Nobel Peace Prize was the inventor of dynamite. Nobel’s dynamite was an extraordinary invention, with this invention we are now able to build roads, ports, bridges, mines, tunnels, and for the use of war.

When Nobel was five years old, his father Immanuel Nobel moved their family to St. Petersburg. There he started a mechanical workshop for the construction of land mines. Ever since Nobel was young, he has been around explosives. Alfred derived his special interest to explosives from his father, Immanuel Nobel, who used to experiment with gunpowder (the only usable explosive by the time).

In 1847, an Italian student of Pelouze, Ascanio Sobrero, discovered a new explosive. He originally called pyroglycerine. Pyroglycerine is also known as nitroglycerine. This explosive was labeled as highly explosive but it was also very unstable, which made handling or transporting it very dangerous.

Alfred Nobel was convinced that nitroglycerin was the future of explosives despite the fact that large gunpowder firms like Du Pont were not investing in the technology. Shortly after Sobrero’s finding he started experimenting with different materials to make the nitroglycerin more stable and thus useful.

In 1866 Albert Nobel discovered that mixing nitroglycerine with silica would turn the liquid into a malleable paste, called dynamite. One advantage of dynamite over nitroglycerin was that it could be cylinder-shaped for insertion into the drilling holes used for mining.

Some people defend that Nobel’s invention happened casually when some nitroglycerin leaked into a material called kieselgurh. The reality is that the dynamite was fruit of an extensive trial and error process and careful scientific analysis of the chemical components.

Once Nobel discovered the material that would make nitroglycerin stable and manageable he just needed to develop a detonating cap and the dynamite was born. He started selling the product under the name of “Nobel’s Blasting Powder”, and the fortune he managed to gather was used to found the Nobel Prize.

Throughout world history religious beliefs have formed an important part of many people's lives, often to the extent of governing them completely. Today, there are scores of religions around the world, each with its own set of beliefs and values, from Christianity to Taoism.

EARLY RELIGIONS

Most major religions are devoted to a single God or a few gods, but it was not always so. Many early humans may have been animists, who believe there is a spirit or god in everything, from animals to rocks. Even today tribal societies in all parts of the world are often animists. They may believe that certain plants, animals or stones are especially important to the safety and happiness of the tribe. These things are called totems. They may also believe certain things are to be avoided at all costs. These are taboos.

Ancient civilizations like the Egyptians and Greeks had much more organized religious beliefs. They were polytheistic. This means that, like animists, they had many gods but the gods were all part of the same story. The Egyptians, for instance, had 2000 gods, but all the major gods were related to Ra, the sun god and creator. The major Greek gods were all associated with Zeus and Mount Olympus. There were also temples devoted to their worship and trained priests who alone knew their secrets. Religion was an important part of the social order.

RELIGIONS TODAY

Today many of the world's major religions, such as Christianity and Islam, are monotheistic - that is, they believe there is just one God. Hindus, however, worship many gods. In China, Confucianists base their lives on the teachings of Confucius, believing society is only happy and calm if people follow the Will of Heaven. Taoists believe there is a mystical power behind all events, and every person has their own special path. In Japan, Shintoists find strength and wealth by worshipping Kami (holy energy).

RELIGIOUS STRIFE

Over the centuries, many people have been persecuted for their religion. Early Christians such as St Sebastian were martyred (killed for their beliefs), while during the Reformation, Protestants and Catholics slaughtered and tortured each other - most notoriously on St Bartholomew's Day, 1572, when the French Protestant Huguenots were massacred.

Religion has also been at the heart of many bitter conflicts throughout history, including the Crusades and the Troubles in Ulster.

CHRISTIANITY

Christianity is probably the world's biggest religion with more than 1500 million followers all over the world. Christians believe the Messiah was Jesus Christ, a Jew who lived in the Holy Land (Israel) 2000 years ago. Christ, they believe, was the Son of God. When he was crucified to death (nailed to a wooden cross) by his enemies, he rose from the dead to join God in heaven. Christ died, they say, to atone for our sins. After his death, his followers spread his teachings far and wide. There are now three main branches of Christianity: Roman Catholics whose leader is the Pope in Rome; Protestants; and the Eastern Orthodox Church.

BUDDHISM

Buddhism is the religion of 300 million people in S E Asia. It is based on the teachings of Prince Siddhartha Gautama, the Buddha, who lived in N E India from 563 to 483 BC. The Buddha was deeply saddened by people's suffering. After long meditation, he came to believe suffering came from desire and from too strong personal attachments. To be free of pain, we must rid ourselves of desire and reach a state of peace called Nirvana by following the eightfold path: perfect understanding, perfect aims, speech, action, way of life, effort, thinking and meditation. Buddhists believe that after death we are all reborn in a new body. But the course of our lives depends on our Karma - the way we behaved in both this and our previous lives.

Islam is one of the world's largest religions with an estimated 1100-1300 million believers.

It was founded in Arabia in the 7th century by the Prophet Muhammad, who Muslims believe was the greatest and the last of the prophets sent by God (AUah in Arabic). The word Islam means submission, and Muslims believe they must obey God totally and base their lives on the five pillars set out in the holy book, the Qur'an. These are: the profession of faith, prayer, payment of a welfare tax, fasting and pilgrimage to the holy city of Mecca in Arabia. A mosque is a holy place of gathering and worship. Mosques have a hollow in the wall (mihrab) and a small platform (mimbar) both facing the direction of Mecca. Before entering the mosque, worshippers cleanse themselves and take off their shoes. At prayer time they kneel with their heads touching the floor and facing the mihrab.

1. How many followers has Islam?

JUDAISM

Jews were the first to believe in a single god, Yahweh, 4000 years ago. God made an agreement with their ancestor, Abraham, that he would be their god and they would be his people if they obeyed his 613 laws and spread his word. Generations later, God rescued the Jews from slavery and gave his laws to their leader, Moses. These laws are written in the Torah (the holy book) and they guide Jews in all aspects of life and prayer. Jews look forward to the coming of the Messiah (God's anointed one), who, they believe, will bring an age of peace and security.

The Star of David is one of the holy symbols of Judaism. King David (1012-972 BC) was a Jewish national hero. Amongst his many great feats, he is said to have written the holy verses, the Psalms.

1. Who believed in single god first?
2. What is the name of holy book of Jews?

HINDUISM

Hinduism is one of the world's oldest religions, founded 5000 years ago. It is also one of the most complex. Hindus worship many different gods, but they all believe in dharma, which is the right way to live. Like Buddhists, they also believe we all have past lives. If our lives were good, we are born again in a higher state; if they were bad, we are born as animals or insects. By following the dharma we may reach the perfect state of Moksha and so never need to be born again.

ROME

Rome (Italian: Roma), once the seat of a vast empire, is now the capital of Italy and the seat of the supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic church (at Vatican City, a sovereign state within Rome). The city is also the capital of Italy's Rome province and Lazio region. Rome is located in central Italy on both sides of the Tiber River between the Apennines and the Tyrrhenian Sea. The city of Rome has a population of 2,8 million people. The city covers an area of 1,507 km².

The Tiber, flowing through Rome from north to south, divides the city. On the east bank the most visible and plentiful remains of classical Rome are located south of Piazza Venezia. To the northwest and along the Tiber, medieval Rome centers on the area between the Via del Corso and the Corso Vittorio Emanuele. During the 16th century Pope Sixtus V began the modern transformation in the area east of the Via del Corso. Here were built the Vatican and Lateran palaces; new, wide streets; and the many squares, fountains, statues, and palaces for which Rome is famous. On the west bank of the Tiber are Vatican City and Trastevere, which has maintained much of its medieval charm.

The state-run University of Rome (1303) is a coeducational institution with an enrollment of 189,000 students. In addition, Rome has several church-run colleges; academies of fine arts; and the Conservatorio di Musica Santa Cecilia (1570), the oldest music academy in the world.

Many of Rome's museums are among the world's greatest. The Vatican museums and galleries contain the richest collections. Other great classical collections are housed in the National and Capitoline museums; magnificent paintings are in the Borghese, Corsini, Doria, and Colonna collections. Rome's opera house is one of Europe's finest. Rome also has many public gardens and parks.

HOLIDAYS

Holiday – from “holy day” – is a day set aside for special observance, either religious or secular. Holidays are often marked by public ceremonies, such as parades and religious services, as well as by rest and recreation. Generosity and sharing are functional aspects of some holidays. The festivals of various ancient civilizations shared certain themes: fertility, death, resurrection, harvest, and thanksgiving that are recognized in modern holidays around the world.

In many countries, important religious holidays have official sanction, at least in the sense that these are recognized days of rest from work. Examples are the Christian holy day of Christmas and the Jewish observance of Yom Kippur. For Muslims, the entire month of Ramadan is observed by periods of fasting and meditation. Fasting and feasting are contrasting features of holidays of other religions, too; Jews, for example, also fast on Yom Kippur, while Easter is one of the Christian “feast days”.

There are many different holidays in Ukraine, some of them have religious interpretation.

On January 7 we celebrate Christmas, birth of the Holy Christ Child. At Christmas everything has a special atmosphere. There are colored lights and decorations in the streets. Before Christmas people clean the house and cook much tasty food. On the sixth of January we also have sacred supper or Kolyada. Special Christmas songs exist. With the help of them people congratulate each other, wish good crops, long life, much happiness, strong health and so on. You must remember that only boys should congratulate because girls bring unhappiness.

In Great Britain Christmas day is observed on the 25-th of December. On Christmas Eve the children decorate the fir-tree with tinsel, colored lights and toys. The houses are decorated with holly and a bunch of mistletoe. The Christmas bird, nowadays usually a turkey, is prepared and stuffed by housewives.

The next religious holiday is Easter. It is movable. It is usually celebrated during the first Sunday after the first full moon after the beginning of spring. There are special attributes of this holiday. They are Easter eggs, so-called “krashankas” and “pysankas” and Easter cakes “pasks”.

An egg has a symbolical meaning. In Christianity it became a personification of a new life, the Lord's gift. During this day people say to each other: “Christ has risen from the dead”.

In Great Britain Easter is also a time when certain old traditions are observed. It is the time of giving presents, and the Easter egg is the most popular emblem of this holiday. Nowadays Easter eggs are usually made of chocolate.

THE EARTH AND THE SOLAR SYSTEM

We, humans, live on the Earth. And our planet Earth is surrounded by space. The sky is what we see of space. There are billions of stars and probably billions of other planets moving through space. Our planet is moving through space too.

We live on the surface of our planet Earth. Gravity keeps us here on the Earth. Gravity is an invisible force that pulls things and people toward the center of the Earth. Without gravity we would float away into space. The Sun lights up the Earth. The Earth turns around each day. The half of the Earth turned away from the Sun is dark. On that half of the Earth it is night. The half of the Earth turned toward the Sun is light. On that half it is daytime. We, human beings, have always wanted to know what is out in space. We have created telescopes and spaceships to find out. Astronomers use giant telescopes to study the moon, stars and planets. Astronauts travel in spaceships; explore parts of space that are too far away for people to visit.

The Sun is really a star. Stars are fiery balls of burning gas. We cannot go to the Sun because it is too hot. The Sun is a million times bigger than the Earth. It's much closer to the Earth than the other stars. That is why the Sun looks so bright to us. The Sun gives light and heat. We, human beings, would not be alive if there were on the Sun. Plants and animals could not live either.

The Moon is our nearest neighbor in space. The Moon is smaller than the Earth. It moves around the Earth in a path, called an orbit. Astronauts have visited the Moon.

Mercury is a planet close to the Sun. It is so hot, that nothing can live here. The spaceship sent back pictures of the surface of Mercury. It has rocks and craters like the Moon's.

Venus is the second planet from the Sun. It is the closest planet to the Earth and about the same size as the Earth. You can easily see Venus in the sky without a telescope. But even the strongest telescope cannot see the surface as it is covered by thick clouds. These clouds are made of acid instead of water.

Mars is about half as big as the Earth. You can also see Mars in the sky without a telescope. For many years people have imagined that there are intelligent humanlike beings on Mars, but there is no breathable air on Mars, so Earthlike beings cannot live there.

Saturn is the second largest planet. It has at least 20 Moons. Jupiter is the biggest planet in our solar system. The solar system is a very small part of the Milky Way galaxy, this galaxy may have 2 hundred billions stars.

THE SUN

The big burning ball of gas that holds nine major planets in orbit is not unlike many stars in the universe. The Sun makes up 99.86 percent of the solar system's mass and provides the energy that both sustains and endangers us. Scientists have lately begun calling its tremendous outpouring of energy "space weather."

The Sun can be divided into three main layers: a core, a radiative zone and a convective zone. The Sun's energy comes from thermonuclear reactions (converting hydrogen to helium) in the core, where the temperature is 15 to 25 million degrees. The energy radiates through the middle layer, then bubbles and boils to the surface in a process called convection. Charged particles, called the solar wind, stream out at a million miles an hour. Magnetic fields within the sun slow down the radiation of heat in some areas, causing sunspots, which are cool areas and appear as dark patches. Sunspot activity peaks every 11 years. The next peak is due in 2011. During this so-called solar maximum, the sun will bombard Earth's atmosphere with extra doses of solar radiation. The last peak caused power blackouts, knocked satellites out of orbit and disrupted radio communications.

An active sun, known to heat the Earth's outer atmosphere, may also affect our climate. Scientists say a small ice age from 1645 to 1715 corresponded to a time of reduced solar activity, and current rises in temperatures might be related to increased solar activity. The Sun frequently spews plumes of energy, essentially bursts of solar wind. These solar flares contain Gamma rays and X-rays, plus energized particles (protons and electrons). Energy is equal to a billion megatons of TNT is released in a matter of minutes. Flare activity picks up as sunspots increase. The Sun's charged, high-speed particles push and shape Earth's magnetic field into a teardrop shape. The magnetic field protects Earth from most of the harmful solar radiation, but extreme flares can disable satellites and disrupt communication signals. The charged particles also excite oxygen and nitrogen in the atmosphere to create the aurora borealis, or northern lights. More solar radiation during the upcoming solar maximum means an increase in the aurora.

If you stood on the Sun, its gravity would make you feel 38 times heavier than you do on Earth. But it's kind of hot, so please don't try it.

THE MOON

Though a satellite of Earth, the Moon is bigger than Pluto. Some scientists think of it as a planet (four other moons in our solar system are even bigger). There are various theories about how the Moon was created, but recent evidence indicates it formed when a huge collision tore a chunk of the Earth away. Because it takes 27.3 days both to rotate on its axis and to orbit Earth, the Moon always shows us the same face. We see the Moon because of reflected sunlight. How much of it we see depends on its position in relation to Earth and the Sun. The 27.3-day number is what scientists call a sidereal month, and it is how long it takes the Moon to orbit the Earth in relation to a fixed star. Another measurement, called a synodic month, is measured between in relation to the Sun and equals 29.5 days. Full moons and new moon are measured by the synodic month.

Earth's gravity keeps the Moon in orbit, while the Moon's gravity creates tides on our oceans. Like the four inner planets, the Moon is rocky. It's pockmarked with craters formed by asteroid impacts millions of years ago. Because there is no weather, the craters have not eroded. The Moon has almost no atmosphere, so a layer of dust -- or a footprint -- can sit undisturbed for centuries. And without an atmosphere, heat is not held near the planet, so temperatures vary wildly. Daytime temperatures on the sunny side of the Moon reach 273 degrees F; on the dark side it gets as cold as -243. The Lunar Prospector in 1998 provided evidence of ice near the Moon's poles, perhaps as much as 6 billion tons of it. The Moon travels around the Earth at a little more than half a mile per second; its speed is slowing and the satellite is gradually moving away from Earth.

The fourth planet from the sun has always captivated our imagination, and while scientists haven't proven there's any life, not even the microscopic variety, the dusty red planet still commands our attention (and a lot of space missions).

The surface of Mars is more interesting than most planets. Like Mercury, Venus and Earth, Mars is mostly rock and metal. Mountains and craters scar the rugged terrain. The dust, an iron oxide, gives the planet its reddish cast. A thin atmosphere and an elliptical orbit combine to create temperature fluctuations ranging from minus 207 degrees Fahrenheit to a comfortable 80 degrees Fahrenheit on summer days (if you are at the equator).

Researchers have recently monitored huge storms swirling on Mars. The storms are very similar to hurricanes on Earth. Mars has two moons, Phobos and Deimos.

Is there water? Mars was most likely warm and wet about 3.7 billion years ago. But as the planet cooled, the water froze. Remnants exist as ice caps at the poles. A recent image of Mars shows evidence of water-bearing minerals in large amounts, and scientists say the deposits may provide clues to the planet's water-rich background.

Is there life on Mars? It has not yet been proven that there is life on Mars. A NASA announcement in 1996 about microscopic life found in a meteorite has failed to convince skeptics, and the search continues. The apparent odd motion of Mars as seen from Earth stumped scientists for centuries, finally leading in the early 1600's to the notion that planets orbited the sun in an elliptical pattern. Percival Lowell, an amateur astronomer who studied Mars into the early 1900s, thought he saw canals that must have been dug by inhabitants. Upon closer examination with modern telescopes and planetary probes, they turned out to be optical illusions.

JUPITER

The fifth planet from the sun is a huge ball of gas so massive it could hold all the other planets put together. What we can see of the planet are bands of the highest clouds in a thick atmosphere of hydrogen and helium. Traces of other gases produce the bright bands of color. The Red Spot Jupiter's most familiar feature is swirling mass of clouds that are higher and cooler than surrounding ones. Called the Great Red Spot, it has been likened to a great hurricane and is caused by tremendous winds that develop above the rapidly spinning planet. Winds blow counterclockwise around this disturbance at about 250 miles per hour. Hurricanes on Earth rarely generate winds over 180 miles an hour. The Red Spot is twice the size of Earth and has been raging for at least 300 years. It is one of several storms on Jupiter.
Jupiter's rapid rotation causes it to bulge, making the diameter 7 percent greater at the equator than at the poles. Around Jupiter, Jupiter has thin, barely perceptible rings and at least 16 satellites. The four largest - Io, Europa, Ganymede and Callisto - are called the Galilean moons. They orbit in the same plane and are all visible in a telescope. You could stuff 1,300 Earths into Jupiter.

MERCURY

The innermost planet is rarely seen because of the Sun's glare. With less than half Earth's gravity, Mercury retains only a wisp of an atmosphere (presumed to be helium). The lack of a significant atmosphere allows temperatures to fluctuate from 750 degrees Fahrenheit during the day to minus 320 Fahrenheit at night.

Like the other terrestrial planets -- Venus, Earth and Mars -- Mercury is made mostly of rock and metal. This small world is scarred by craters and looks somewhat like our Moon. Mercury has been known since ancient times. Its elusiveness generated the name Hermes, given by the Greeks, later translated to Mercurius by the Romans.
